Dear Bobs Burgers Hiring Team

I've noticed that your company is based on automation, and I believe any company in that direction will be a long term success. I place value in companies who have a meaningful role in society and will change the world. My skills align very well for the Software Engineer position.
I am excited to contribute to Bobs Burgers in a way that will make a big impact.

Let me share some unique things about myself. I started programming when I was 16 years old, and the first book I picked up was javascript. I have always been curious about how to make websites, and how computers work. This passion I have always makes me humble to learn new things everyday. From years ago to now, I am proficient in fullstack and some devops which is a great demanded skill in developer positions.
